

JOHN W. ROWE

Class of 1963

University of Wisconsin-Madison History and Law Degrees

Harvard in the Advanced Management Program plus numerous Honorary Degrees from other Universities

John has been the CEO of several electric and power companies including Exelon Corporation, one of the nation's largest electric companies. He has provided industry leadership on nuclear power, energy conservation, and climate change. He has been an adviser to the U.S. Secretary of Energy, traveled to over 50 countries, and has met four U.S. Presidents. John has chaired the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation, the Field Museum, Illinois Holocaust Museum, and the Chicago History Museum. He and his wife, Jeanne, founded three charter schools in Chicago.

Inducted on May 16, 2018